Our conservatories and orangeries offer excellent thermal performance

UPVC has been recognised for many years as a durable, low-maintenance and energy-efficient option for conservatories. Now, thanks to advances in recycling, UPVC is also the first-choice material for sustainability. Here's why...

The official life span of UPVC is 35 years, and research shows that 95% of it can be recycled. Not only that but it can be recycled up to 10 times. This means UPVC can be reused, with minimal impact on the environment, for 350 years.

At Eurocell, we're committed to producing high-quality products that reduce our impact on the environment. That's why we're at the forefront of sustainable developments in the UPVC industry.

We recycle around 3 million waste window and conservatory frames every year, which would otherwise go to landfill. We then use some of that material to make new windows and conservatories. And this process is all completed in the UK – reducing CO2 emissions in the manufacturing process and cutting down travel miles.

Our conservatories and orangeries offer excellent thermal performance too. Their U-value is as little as 0.15 on solid tiled roofs and 1.0 on glazed roofs. That means less heat escapes in winter, and the temperature is regulated in summer. So, your room will be comfortable to use all year round. Plus, you'll save money on heating bills and reduce your carbon footprint.

Our conservatories represent a genuinely sustainable option. So, choosing to buy your UPVC from us is good for your home, your pocket and the environment.

Excellent thermal performance with sustainability credentials.

Not only do our products offer excellent thermal performance, helping you regulate temperatures in your home, they can help save on your energy costs too. What's more, they feature on average 30% recycled content at their core.

YOUR HOME

OUR RANGE

Contemporary Conservatories

with pilasters, a highline cornice and slimline roof system

Our contemporary conservatories combine stunning good looks with the latest technologies. They feature supporting pilasters, a stylish highline cornice and a slimline roof system, bringing conservatory design into the 21st century.

See pages 14-15 for more details.

Traditional Conservatories

Edwardian, Victorian, gable end and lean-to styles

Conservatories first became popular in the stately homes of the 1800s. So, it's no surprise traditional designs are still a firm favourite among those looking to capture a little bit of grandeur in their homes today.

See pages 16-17 for more details.

Orangeries

with our innovative highline cornice and pelmet

Our orangeries are a modern take on a traditional conservatory roof design. They combine the tall, pillared grandeur of an orangery with the light and open feeling of a conservatory – giving you the best of both worlds.

See pages 18-19 for more details.

Solid Tiled Roofs

with Equinox solid tiled roofs and lightweight tiles

Our fully insulated Equinox solid tiled roofs are perfect for conservatories and extensions. They'll create a stylish living space that stays warm in winter and cool in summer.

See pages 20-21 for more details.

CONTEMPORARY CONSERVATORIES

Cool and sophisticated with a stunning designer look

A contemporary conservatory gives you the light and airy feeling you expect from a conservatory, but with an attractive modern appearance.

Our contemporary conservatory designs combine our exclusive pilaster system with our modern highline cornice and stylish slimline roof system.

The pilasters offer a modern alternative to traditional solid brick supports. They're fully insulated to keep your conservatory warm and cosy. In addition, they can be decorated on the inside to make your conservatory feel more like a room. And the outside is covered in composite cladding, available in two styles and various colours.

Meanwhile, the slim lines of the roof, combined with your choice of windows, doors and frames, not only look incredible, but allow natural light to flood the space, even on dark days.

The optional highline cornice finishes the look, creating a stunning, modern conservatory with superior thermal performance, allowing year-round use.

TRADITIONAL CONSERVATORIES

Classic yet timeless

with all the benefits of modern design

A traditional conservatory combines the latest technologies in roofs and glazing with a more time-honoured, period look.

Our traditional conservatories are the perfect partner for older properties. They're available in a range of designs, each with its own distinctive look and a choice of three window and door styles and eight frame colours.

And the great thing about our traditional conservatories is they're so versatile. You can stick entirely with the traditional look, with French doors and classic white, cream or wood effect coloured frames. Or, you can add a modern twist and go for bi-fold or sliding doors and one of today's more popular colours, such as Anthracite Grey.

And while your conservatory will look traditional, its benefits certainly won't be. Our traditional conservatories boast all the advantages of modern technology, including high-quality materials and excellent thermal performance.

EDWARDIAN STYLE

Taking its influence from period architecture, a UPVC Edwardian conservatory offers a simple, understated style designed to blend seamlessly with the rest of your home. One of its most attractive features is a double-hipped or sloping pitched roof with a delightful 'vaulted' effect, filled with natural light.

VICTORIAN STYLE

The Victorian conservatory design is one of the most popular in the UK. And with charm and style in abundance, it's easy to see why. Inspired by period architecture, this conservatory design echoes the attractive features and ornate finishing touches you'd expect from Victorian buildings.

P-SHAPED CONSERVATORIES

Combine two styles for more space and greater flexibility.

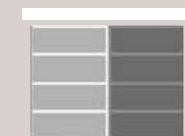

LEAN-TO

A lean-to conservatory is a simple, fuss-free building that runs along the back of your property. With a minimalist style and clean lines, it's a simple way to link your interior space to your garden and maximise the room you have available.

GABLE END

With its roots in Georgian architecture, our gable end conservatory maximises floor space, with a few external design flourishes added for good measure. The impressive front elevation with the gable end allows the glass to extend into the apex of the roof, flooding your home with natural light.

ORANGERIES

Simple and stylish with a touch of elegance

An orangery gives you the structural stability of a brick extension, combined with the openness and light of a conservatory.

Once a sign of prestige and wealth, orangeries have become a popular choice for adding an extra room to a home. And with so many beautiful features, it's easy to see why.

Our orangery roof system is a modern take on a traditional roof design. Combining a traditionally styled external highline cornice with an internal insulated, plastered pelmet.

It comes with a range of traditional or modern finishing touches. They include subtle, integrated lighting within the pelmet that will turn your orangery into a tranquil and relaxing living space, whatever the time of year.

Also available is the Lusso Light roof system. It has an internal pelmet that's UPVC clad, giving you the orangery effect but at a lower cost.

Our orangery roofs can be fitted to most Eurocell conservatory roof systems. So, you can use it to heighten the appeal of a traditional Edwardian, Victorian or P-shaped conservatory. And, as with all our conservatory systems, Lusso Light can be perfectly colour-matched, providing a striking appearance to any design.

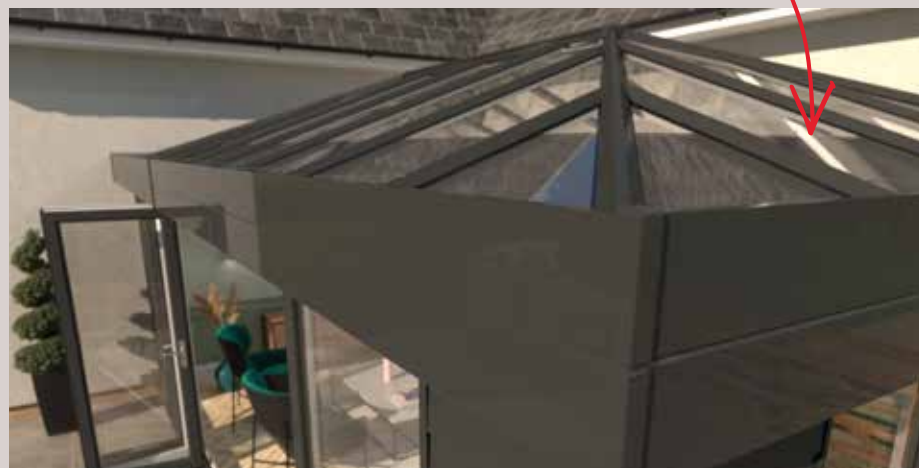

Create the ultimate contemporary orangery

Our conservatory systems are so versatile that you can create any design you want. Why not pair one of our contemporary conservatories with a plastered internal pelmet for a clean, modern look.

External highline cornice

Available in a traditional or contemporary design and a range of colours.

Internal pelmet

A range of options including a plaster boarded finish in two sizes or a slimline UPVC option.

SOLID TILED ROOF SYSTEM

The cost-effective solution for cold or hot conservatories

Transform your old conservatory into a beautiful room that's comfortable to use all year round with an energy-efficient modern tiled conservatory roof.

Bright, spacious and airy, a conservatory is an excellent addition to any home. But if your old conservatory is too cold in winter or too hot in summer, replacing the roof is the most cost-effective way of upgrading it without re-building the whole thing.

Our Equinox solid tiled roof is the perfect solution. Combining high-quality precision engineering with attractive styling inside and out, you'll be adding valuable extra usable space to your home without the high cost of building an extension.

And a solid conservatory roof not only transforms the outside look of your home; it completely changes the inside too. You'll have a beautiful, plastered conservatory ceiling that feels more like part of your home.

Our Equinox solid tiled roof systems have been specially designed to fit any existing conservatory, whether it's a small lean-to or a large P-shaped design. And our wide range of tile options ensures your new roof will perfectly complement your conservatory, your home and its surrounding environment. So, we can truly transform your space to suit your needs.

Natural light is a welcome guest in any home. So, if you love the idea of a solid roof on your conservatory but don't want to restrict the light, Equinox Vega is the answer. It takes your solid tiled roof to a whole new level. Equinox Vega is a solid tiled roof that features large, glazed areas. Allowing up to 850cm widths of natural light for brighter sunlit conservatories, giving the impression of even more space.
